

THEOLOGICAL BOOK PUBLISHERS

A book's publisher often suggests the orientation of the book and its level of scholarship, since publishers specialize in certain types of works. You can learn about the orientation and specializations of a press from their Web site.

Conservative – more popular (occasional moderately scholarly works)

Bethany Fellowship Baker (some moderate scholarship) Barbour Chariot/Victor/Lion Crossway Books
Creation House Discovery House Harold Shaw Harvest House Fleming H. Revell Kregel
Moody Multnomah NavPress Rainbow Spence Publishing Thomas Nelson
Zondervan (Academic press is moderately scholarly)

Conservative to Moderate Evangelical -- more scholarly

Broadman (moderately scholarly) Hendrickson InterVarsity Providence House Trinity
Tyndale House William B. Eerdmans (generally quite scholarly) Word Mercer University Press

Moderate to Critical -- scholarly

Abingdon Aldine De Gruyter Charles Scribner's sons Doubleday (some popular) Eisenbrauns
(scholarly works on Ancient Near East) Fortress Press Harper & Row HarperSanFrancisco
HarperCollins Macmillan (some popular) Oxford University Prentice-Hall SCM T & T Clark
University Press of America (some textbooks)

Baptist

Broadman (some moderately scholarly works) Broadman & Holman Convention Press Judson Press
New Hope Publishers R. H. Boyd Publishers Smyth & Helwys Solid Ground Christian Books

Catholic (some scholarly)

St. Anthony Messenger Press St. Bede's Franciscan Press Liguori Liturgical Press
Michael Glazier Orbis Books Pauline Paulist St. Martin's

Jewish -- scholarly

Jewish Publication Society Ktav

Other Denominations (mostly popular)

Augsburg (Lutheran) Banner of Truth (conservative) Barclay Press (Quaker)
Beacon Hill Press (Nazarene) Chalice Press (critical) Cokesbury (United Methodist)
College Press (Church of Christ) Concordia (Lutheran) Friends United Press (Quaker)
Pacific (Adventist) Pilgrim Press (United Church of Christ)
Presbyterian and Reformed (Orthodox Presbyterian) Review and Herald (Adventist)
Westminster John Knox (Presbyterian)